

SQUARE MILE CONNECTIONS READY FOR THE WORLD STAGE

Newbury based Square Mile Connections recruitment company could soon be spreading their wings and taking on the world.

The resource and recruitment service are attracting a slew of new clients from all over the globe. Recently working with companies from Dubai, Hong Kong, Mauritius and even New York.

After a very successful 2007, the company has gone from strength to strength developing international opportunities for themselves. Offering the best search and selection services as well as comprehensive human resources support.

With their focus not just in recruitment but ensuring their clients have up-to-date employment law as well as access to human resource advice should they need it, it's not hard to see how they have achieved such a positive reputation.

The company is now in its third year and is flourishing despite the challenges the industry is currently weathering. They are providing for their clients no matter where their location.

Although Square Mile Connections have landed many accounts abroad, they still have their roots firmly set in Newbury, based in Kings Road West, with a respectable network of local clients as well as those in London.
