

Certus open office in Thames Valley Business Park.

SALES recruitment consultancy Certus has opened a new office in Thames Valley Business Park.

At the helm are Rob Popham and Matt Smith joined by sales manager, James Tompsett, who is responsible for developing the Reading business.

Certus operate in industries that have need of premium sales people. Their experience is key in helping companies overcome the challenges that today's working environment throws at them.

The company provide a dedicated recruitment provision for the Thames Valley region which will compliment the company's other branches in Covent Garden and Leeds.

Mr Popham said: "Certus Sales has been growing consistently, and when considering our expansion plans, Reading was the obvious choice".

"We have a significant client base throughout the Thames Valley and the opportunity to further develop our business in this region is fantastic."

Thames Valley Park is a modern, attractive business park that can be found on the east side of Reading, positioned close to the banks of the River Thames it is a highly sought after location.

For more information visit:

<http://www.certussales.com/>
<http://www.thamesvalleypark.co.uk/>

www.businessinberkshire.co.uk

