

Toyah stars in Berkshire pantomime

Toyah Wilcox is set to woo audiences in Berkshire this year and she perfects her pantomime performances in a version of the classic tale of Jack and the Beanstalk.

Christopher Lillicrap - top pantomime dame - will join Wilcox on stage as the show is staged by the Proper Pantomime Company in the Hexagon, Reading, the BBC reports.

Following the success of the company's Aladdin spectacular last year, the performances will commence from December 8th and is likely to get locals ready for the fun and festivities the month is sure to provide.

Famed for her musical talents at the end of the last century, Wilcox will also be helping to kick start the festive season in Bracknell, local publication Bracknell News reports.

The star is set to switch on the Christmas lights there at the end of this month and will dazzle the crowd with a special performance.
