

First Page SEO

Chasing key words to drive search traffic your way

This article has been written to help you with b2b sales lead generation

It contains useful information for those considering creating small business websites that work!

If the grammar rubs a little then we are sorry, we are looking to inform you while offering seo services to the UK!

This is the first of 10 articles, containing at least 6 contextual links to be published over six search engine friendly websites. Each article will be published using content management for websites. The aim is to build first page seo rankings for all six sites that drive targeted business leads to your door.

First we will determine the impact on lead generation of publishing articles on existing websites and then look to add the content to researched third party websites. We have six weeks to work out this programme and enhance our online marketing services for the uk.

There appears to be some discrepancy with the number of links Google has for our various sites depending on how we request the count to be made. We had assumed you could use:

- links:<http://www.firstpageseo.co.uk>
- or links:www.firstpageseo.co.uk and you would end up with the same page count, not so, the counts vary hugely. We'll ask the question on our Linked In forum and see what feedback is given.

Being the first page is essential if you want to drive traffic from the Internet. Most of us are impatient, if we don't find the answer we are looking for within 1 or 2 clicks we're off doing another search. We therefore need to make sure our content is shown on page one for the most popular search strings that relate to the core topic of the site.

That's the ideal, the reality is we need to pick a bunch of phrases and then work at helping that page achieve a dominant position. We are attempting to do that by having contextual links from one page to relevant information on other content management websites and so help all sites prosper.

We can assist you in achieving your lead generation & marketing website goals. Call 01753 852904 quoting 1seo1.

If you're reading this and actually have a need for a product or service, tell us your need and we'll push it through our systems and let's see if we can help find you a supplier.
