

NEW ALIENWARE GRAPHICS ARE OUT OF THIS WORLD

MANUFACTURER OF HIGH END LAPTOPS AND PROFESSIONAL DESKTOP SYSTEMS ALIENWARE HAVE ANNOUNCED THE ARRIVAL OF THEIR NEW CROSSFIREX MULTI GPU SYSTEM.

What does this mean for today's video game enthusiast; well the ALX CrossFireX has enhanced its graphic's ability giving it four times the power of previous video cards which rivals anything currently on the market.

This technology developed by ATI Technologies will provide your gaming pc with the ability to run four video cards at once to boost the performance to astronomical levels. And although this type of technology is being brought forward to today's gaming hungry consumer, similar systems such as AMR have only ever been used in professional video cards for flight simulators and within the military.

With 2 GPUs each and 1 GB of video memory, the CrossFireX is definitely something to get excited about.

Users will also be able to customise and fine tune the way the system works with a whole host of tools at their fingertips giving them control over everything from overclocking (to improve the systems performance), temperature control and VPU safety features to help maintain their systems.

CrossFireX creates superior gaming power creating the opportunity to play at high resolutions with great performance.

www.pconlinegaming.co.uk