

Leasing a Mercedes C Class

Mercedes recently offered a tantalising first glimpse of the new c-class, a remarkable car that will set previously unseen standards for safety, comfort and agility in its sector. It's the 4th generation of Mercedes smallest saloon, a direct competitor to the BMW 3 Series.

Leasing a Mercedes C Class is an affordable option which offers plenty of advantages when compared to buying the car on a finance agreement. When you lease a Mercedes C Class, you only pay for the use of the vehicle and not the purchase price.

With car leasing, the driver's monthly payments cover the cost of the depreciation over the time they use the car, with the option to buy or return the vehicle at the end of the agreement. As leasing payments tend to be cheaper than purchasing, it's an affordable way to drive a new car.

The latest C Class Mercedes is a completely redesigned model which is longer and wider (and therefore more spacious) than its predecessor. It comes loaded with innovative technology such as the PRE-SAFE anticipatory safety system already seen in the E-Class and S-Class range.

The new model has been designed to appeal to a younger driver and Mercedes have aimed to create a dynamic looking car which comes in a choice of grille styles: the traditional 'gun-sight' grille package comes with the SE and Elegance trim levels, while the sportier coupe style grille can be found on the Sport. The new Mercedes C Class also features some exciting new developments, including AGILITY CONTROL with selective damping system guaranteed to increase enjoyment at the wheel.

Ben Newton of Windsor Vehicle Leasing adds 'Launching in June, the new C-Class will be available in three specifications: SE, Elegance and Sport. All feature an improved range of petrol and diesel engines'.
