Automobile Advice for Business in Berkshire

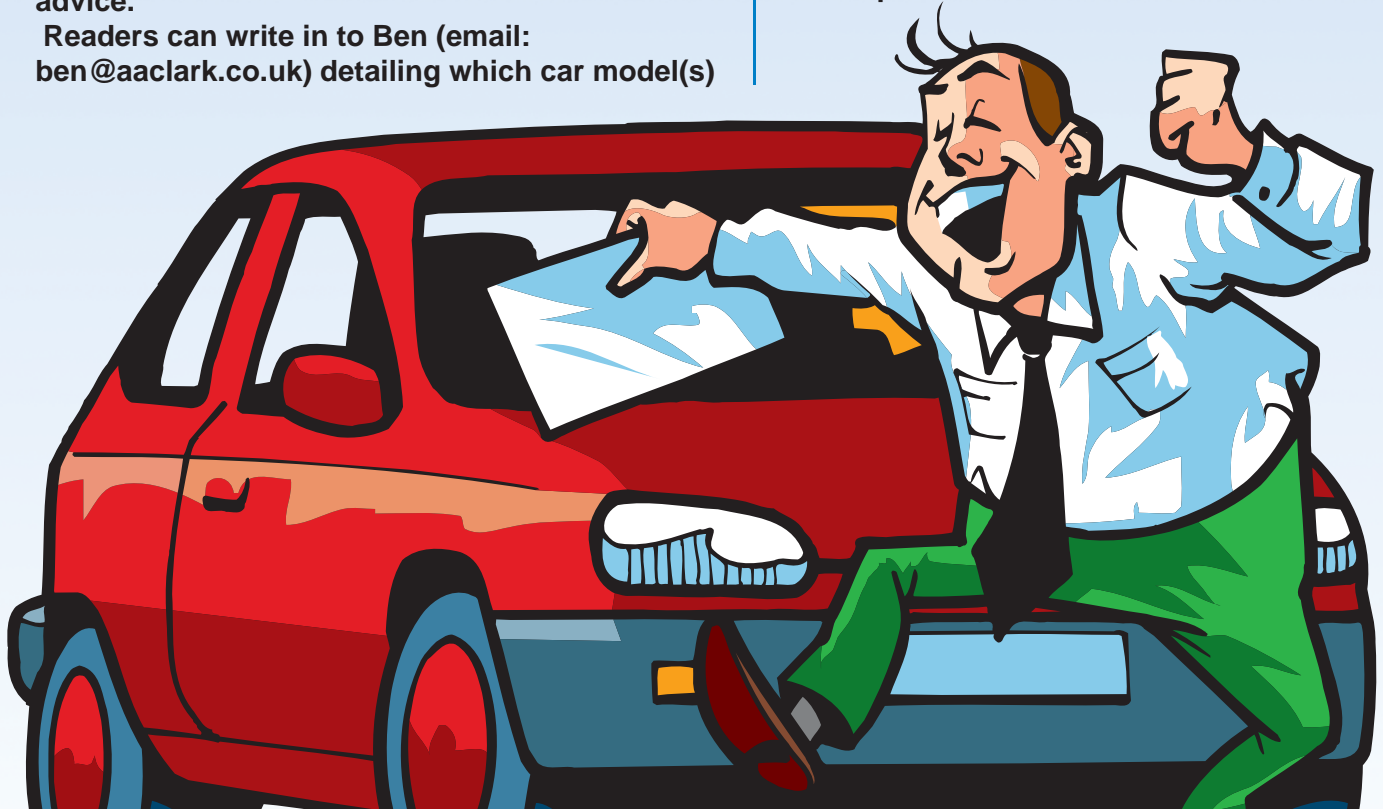

Company cars come in all shapes and sizes. If you've been offered a company car or it's time to change yours, there is a bewildering array of options to choose from. Do you want a sporty-looking, zippy number? Or do you need something with lots of space for you and the family? What about the income tax implications? What is your annual mileage? Do you need the car just for commuting or do you work in sales?

Ben Newton of Windsor Vehicle Leasing will be giving Business in Berkshire readers free, personal advice about what's the best car for them. Ben has years of valuable experience in the motor trade so is well placed to give unbiased advice.

Readers can write in to Ben (email: ben@aaclark.co.uk) detailing which car model(s) they are considering and, each month, he will present a 'road test' covering the car's specifications, how it drives, if it's value for money as a company car and an overall summary of its pros and cons.

Ben says: "There are hundreds of company cars on the market which can make it very difficult and stressful for a busy employee to decide which one is right for their personal needs. It can take hours in terms of research, ordering back-copies of magazines, asking other owners and test-driving different models – all of this is useful ground-work but we want to help Business in Berkshire readers with this important decision-making process by offering free impartial advice."
